Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 7—

John Albert Linder, an illumination engineer, died yesterday at his home, 41 Prospect Avenue. His age was 61. He had been at work the day before at the Westinghouse Electric Company, where he had been an engineer for thirty-five years.

Mr. Linder was responsible for the development of an improved gunsight lamp used by military aircraft. He also had developed and improved many types of incandescent lamps for the automotive industry and the armed forces.

He began work, after his graduation in 1915 from Princeton University, in the Westinghouse lamp division in Bloomfield. In recent years he had been manager of development activities in the training and indoctrination of the company's young engineers.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Harriet Moore Linder; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Linder Norman; a son, Peter John Linder; two sisters, Mrs. R. Mayo Crawford of Pittsfield, Conn., and Mrs. Henry N. Herndon of Wilmington, Del., and a brother, George Brooke Linder of Detroit.

11/8/54

10/30/54 Augustus Noble Hand

Of judges it may be said with a good measure of confidence that the good they do lives after them. Certainly it may be said of Judge Augustus N. Hand, who upon his retirement last year had served more than thirty-nine years on the Federal bench. President Eisenhower conveyed as much when he told Judge Hand he would never be able to retire in the literal sense of the word. "Your great contribution to American jurisprudence," he wrote, "is a part of history and will continue to serve as an inspiration."

Like his well known cousin Learned Hand, Judge Augustus Hand had a share in many of the critical court decisions of the present age. Among his best-remembered cases are the motion-picture and aluminum anti-trust actions, phases of the Hiss and Rosenberg trials, the appeal of the eleven top Communists and the hearings on obscenity charges against James Joyce's novel "Ulysses." His influence has been felt in the shaping of the law on wire-tapping, alien registration, discrimination, union labor, rent control, and innumerable other subjects touching intimately the day-to-day concerns of Americans.

The height and breadth of Judge Hand's attainments were manifest not only in the courtroom but in the ordinary conduct of life. His quick mind, retentive memory and exact judgment demanded alertness in others and usually got it. His devotion to poetry and to classical literature helped to keep alive the humane understanding, imagination and humor for which he was famous. On receiving an honorary degree from Princeton two years ago, he was cited as "wise and unwavering . . . not one who has winnowed with every wind, but has remained steadfast," a good epitome of an upright, beneficent life.

COL. E. M. FROMENT, STEEL MAKER, 75

Retired Manufacturer Dies—
Joined 7th Regiment in 1897,
Headed Its Veterans Unit

Col. Eugene McKibbin Froment of 175 East Seventy-ninth Street, a retired steel manufacturer and a former president of the Veterans Association of the Seventh Regiment, died on Thursday at the Honesdale (Pa.) Hospital after a long illness. He was 75 years old.

Colonel Froment was a son of Frank L. Froment and Mrs. Lydia Bacon Froment. He was formerly associated with his father and a brother, Louis, in the steel business that his father had founded. When the New York Central System bought the Froment warehouse on the lower West Side the business was merged with Egleston Brothers & Co., and Colonel Froment later retired from it.

He joined B Company of the Seventh Regiment, New York National Guard, on Jan. 7, 1897. In November, 1917, he was appointed captain of the regimental supply company, and on April 4, 1917, he became regimental machine-gun officer.

In June, 1924, he was named a lieutenant colonel, with the recognition of the Federal Government, and three years later he retired as a full colonel.

In 1902 he had joined the Veterans Association and in 1946 he was elected its president, a post he held for three years. He was on the board of the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital for twenty years. He was a trustee of the Riverside Church, of which he had been a parishioner for sixty years. A member of the Society of Colonial Wars, he also belonged to the New York Society of Military and Naval Officers of World Wars.

He joined the New York Athletic Club in 1899. An enthusiastic fisherman, he was for five years chairman of the club's Angler's group, and had been since boyhood a member of the Blooming Grove Hunting and Fishing Club, Wayne County, Pa., where he also had a summer home.

Colonel Froment belonged to the Huckleberry Indians, the Anglers Club, the Humane Society of New York (of which he had served as an officer) and the Pilgrims.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Edith Hoyt Smith Froment; two sons, Frank L. Froment and Capt. Howard Froment, U. S. A.; two daughters, Mrs. William Runk and Mrs. Jeanne Froment Brooks; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Jay Hormel Dead; 'Spam' Developer

AUSTIN, Minn., Aug. 30 (U.P.).—Jay Catherwood Hormel, sixty-one, board chairman of George A. Hormel & Co., the meatpackers, died today in his home of a coronary occlusion. He had been ill for more than a year.

Brought Out 'Spam'

Mr. Hormel—the man who originated Spam—took over active management in 1926 of the family meat business which his father, George, had founded in 1887 as a small-town butcher shop.

The business was already large, but Mr. Hormel made it nationally and then internationally known with the innovation of tinned meats, extensive advertising and enlightened labor relations.

He introduced a guaranteed annual wage for his employees, paying them at a basic rate fifty-two times a year whether they worked fifty-three hours a week in winter when the hog kill is at peak, or eighteen hours in summer when slaughtering diminishes while the animals are fattening.

Founded Incentive Plan

He founded a system of incentive payments to workers in departments which exceeded production schedules, and, in a profit-sharing plan, he gave as much as eight weeks' extra pay a year to all employees.

In World War II his Spam went all over the world as soldiers' and sailors' rations and as lend-lease food for many countries. Many a serviceman ate so much of it that he vowed never to eat it again. Mr. Hormel came by the name Spam in 1937 when he gave a cocktail party at which the cost of a drink was a written suggestion as to what he might call his new tinned pork product.

Mr. Hormel was born in Austin on Sept. 11, 1892. He attended private schools and Princeton University and, from the time he was big enough, worked summers in the packing plant. He became vice-president of the firm in 1916, president in 1929 and chairman in 1945, a year before his father's death.

War I Shipping Scheme

In World War I he was a lieutenant stationed at a quartermaster depot in Tours, France. In 1918, when shipping was short and beef supply declined in France, he submitted a scheme to save shipping space 40 per cent by boning beef in the United States before loading it in vessels.

The Army immediately brought him to Washington to draw up uniform instructions on boning and freezing for all meat packers supplying the Army with beef.

For many years Mr. Hormel was chairman of the employment committee of the American Legion, and conducted campaigns aimed at convincing American business men of the value of stable employment. The Hormel firm employs 9,000 workers at five main plants and about twenty distributing, manufacturing and sales branches over the country.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Germaine Dubois Hormel, and three sons, George A. Hormel 2d, Thomas Dubois Hormel and James Catherwood Hormel.

HENRY BRADY DEAD; A REALTY OPERATOR

Henry Brady of 610 Park Avenue, well-known real estate operator and appraiser died yesterday morning of a cerebral hemorrhage at the LeRoy Hospital. His age was 73.

A native of New York, he was the son of Henry and Mary Tolan Brady. He established his own business in 1905 and at his death was a partner of his son, Philip H. Brady, with offices at 31 Nassau Street.

Mr. Brady was appraiser of properties in New York County that had been acquired by the city in condemnation proceedings for bridge and tunnel approaches and parkways since 1916. In recent years, he was employed by the city in connection with appraisals in housing projects.

He was a member of the Finance Committee, New York Democratic Committee; the Manhattan Club, Garden City Golf Club, Lake Placid Club, Madison Square Garden Club and the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick.

Surviving, besides his son, are his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Donohue Brady; three daughters, Mrs. W. Thomas Hoyt, New York; Mrs. R. Mackay Lynch, Chicago, and Miss Gertrude Brady, New York; three sisters, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Parsells a 10-Goal Player

Polo Star, 36, Stricken In Friend's Pool, Dies

Special to the Herald Tribune

BROOKVILLE, L. I., July 6.—Albert Parsells, thirty-six, one of the country's leading polo players, died early today. He apparently suffered a heart attack while swimming in a pool at the home of his friend, Frederick Zeller, on Old Wheatley Road.

Mr. Parsells, whose handicap was nine goals outdoors and ten indoors, played No. 3 yesterday for Westbury which lost to Meadow Brook by 10 to 5 on Hitchcock Field in Westbury. He scored three goals and played his usual hard riding game.

After the match, Mr. Parsells and his wife, Eileen, went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Zeller. Mr. Parsells was swimming in the pool when, at about 12:20 a. m., he shouted and went under. He surfaced again and Mr. Zeller held out a long pole. He did not grip it and again went under. Mr. Zeller dove into the pool and brought him out.

Mrs. Zeller, meanwhile, summoned a neighbor, Dr. Edward C. Keefer, who pronounced Mr. Parsells dead at 12:40 a. m. Pending the result of an autopsy it was not known whether death was caused by drowning or perhaps by heart attack, or both. Mr. Parsells, Mr. Zeller told police today, was a poor swimmer.

Mr. Parsells lived in Tallman, N. Y. He grew up with horses, his father having been manager of a polo stable in Closter, N. J. He was a good rider at nine and a jockey at small local tracks at thirteen.

Mr. Parsells had played for a number of teams in the East, and for years was leader of the Ramapo Reds. Last year he played for a Milwaukee team which won the national twenty-goal championship. Last winter he led Squadron A to the national indoor championship.

His skill in polo was all the more remarkable because he lost the sight of his left eye at twelve in a fire cracker accident.

OLD WESTBURY, July 6.—
Albert Parsells, one of the country's better polo players, died early today shortly after a heart attack while swimming in the private pool on the Fred Zeller estate.

Mr. Parsells, a nine-goal player, was 36. He scored three of the Westbury team's five goals yesterday as it lost to the Meadowbrook riders. Shortly before midnight he complained to Mr. Zeller of feeling extremely warm and decided to take a brief swim. Soon after he was found floating in the pool. He

AL PARSELLS, 36, TOP POLO PLAYER

9-Goal Star Suffers a Heart Attack While Swimming in Pool in Old Brookville

Special to The New York Times.

OLD BROOKVILLE, L. I., July

3—Al Parsells, one of the nation's leading polo players and a professional horse dealer, died early today while swimming in a pool on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zeller on Wheatley Road. He had suffered a heart attack, according to a report at Meadow Brook Hospital where an autopsy was performed. He was 36 years old.

Mr. Parsells, who only hours before his death had scored three goals for the Westbury polo team against the Meadow Brook Club, and his wife were spending the holiday at the Zeller home. Mr. Zeller also is a polo player.

About midnight, Mr. Parsells said he would like a swim before retiring. He dived into the pool while his wife and friends looked on. Suddenly, he went under. Mr. Zeller leaped into the water and pulled him out. Dr. Edward C. Keefer, a neighbor, pronounced him dead at 12:40 A. M.

Mr. Parsells, whose given name was Albert and whose home was Tallman, Rockland County, N. Y., was considered one of the best indoor polo players in the country. He had charge of the polo horses and played on the team at Meadow Brook. In winter, he played in New York in the Squadron A matches. He had a nine-goal rating.

Known in polo circles as "Wildman," because of his aggressive riding and willingness to risk injury in a match, Mr. Parsells had played the game since he was 18. He had served in World War II. On a July 4th holiday years ago, Mr. Parsells lost the sight of his left eye.

He leaves his wife, the former Eileen McNamara, and three children.

Led Ramapo Club

Mr. Parsells had steadily advanced his rating in recent years. His indoor handicap was raised from seven to eight goals in the autumn of 1949, and was increased to nine three years later. The United States Polo Association, in January, 1953, rated him at nine goals in outdoor polo. He was then manager of polo at the Meadow Brook Club, at Westbury, L. I., and at the Squadron A Armory.

On many occasions Mr. Parsells led his Ramapo Polo Club team to victory on indoor fields. He was a former coach of the Yale University polo team.

ALBIN KESLEY SCHOEPF '15

WITH sincere sorrow, the Class of 1915 records the death of our loyal friend and respected classmate, Albin Kesley Schoepf, suddenly, in Pinehurst, N.C., on March 20, 1954.

Having retired several years ago from a long and successful business career, culminating in the presidency of the Sun Chemical Company of Long Island City, New York, Al had been living for some time past on his "Jubilee Farm" in Dublin, N.H. Here a year and more ago last summer, he had suffered a severe heart attack which proved to be the forerunner of the fatal recurrence while vacationing in Pinehurst.

Al was born on March 17, 1893, in Washington, D.C., but lived most of his early life in Cincinnati, where his father, the late W. Kesley Schoepf, had been president and chairman of the Ohio Traction Company and the Cincinnati Car Company.

He prepared for college at St. George's School, Newport, R.I. At Princeton he roomed with Christie, Deming, Pope, and Rentschler. He was a member of the Cottage Club.

In World War I he was commissioned as first lieutenant in 1917, assigned to the 326th Field Artillery, and was promoted to captaincy on Aug. 9, 1918.

As one of the earliest Benedicts in the Class, shortly after our graduation, he married Virginia Goodbar of St. Louis, Mo., who, together with three daughters—Mrs. William W. Boynton of Ridgefield, Conn., Dr. Julie Crocker of Hanover, N.H., and Luan Schoepf of Cambridge, Mass.—survive him. His only son, Kesley, was lost during his service in the air-arm in the Mediterranean area in World War II.

Al's complete and life-long devotion to his family, like his deep and lasting loyalty to his friends, was one of the finest of his many fine qualities. The Class extends a most special expression of sympathy to his family in their great loss, which is also so sadly ours.

2 HURT AS HORSES SHY

Rider Is Thrown, Woman Afoot Is Injured in Central Park

A horseman and a woman pedestrian were injured slightly early yesterday afternoon when two horses shied at fluttering flags at a memorial ceremony at Central Park for John Purroy Mitchel, Mayor of New York from 1914 to 1917.

One horse bolted at the park entrance at Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street, throwing its rider, Moses Schonfeld, 43 years old, of 15 West Eighty-first Street. His left ankle was injured but he refused medical aid.

The other horse, bucking and rearing, brushed against Elizabeth Tydelman, about 65, of 154 East Ninety-first Street, who was on the bridle path. She fell into a clump of bushes. She refused to enter an ambulance sent to the scene and left in a taxicab after saying her injuries did not amount to anything.

The second horse was ridden by Miss Ines von Martiny, 26, of 250 West Seventy-seventh Street, who was not thrown.

A GUIDE TO LIVING IN CITY IS OFFERED

7/8/54

Harrington Lists 5 Don'ts and 5 Do's on How to Get Along and Like It Here

How to live in New York and like it was the sermon topic of the Rev. Donald Harrington yesterday at the Community Church, 40 East Thirty-fifth Street.

The minister listed five don'ts and five do's in "simple and practical" terms on how to go about it. Here is his prescription:

DON'T

Remember, first of all, that you don't have to live here. It depends on what you want out of life, so don't seek something that New York cannot give.

Don't try to make New York over into a small town like the one you came from. You will only end up by breaking your heart if you don't accept it for what it is.

Don't try to take in everything that New York has to offer. You have to make careful choices or you will find yourself drowned in the mighty stream.

Don't let New York's cynicism and sophistication hide the warm heart of its inhabitants. There is more idealism here than in any other place in the world.

Don't expect too much of New York. The glamour and genius that you get out of this city depend on the glamour and genius that you contribute to it.

DO

Learn how to make friends in New York. Although many New Yorkers have their defenses up, you can penetrate them in the neighborhood where you live and in a limited inner-circle of like-minded people.

Enjoy and learn to appreciate the particular beauties of this city. If we have eyes to see, we can look at the long lines of the skyscrapers with their gestures of aspiration, the sunset over the Jersey hills and the joviality on Tenth and Eleventh Avenues by the markets.

Take advantage of New York's cultural opportunities. There is nothing that humans can do that they cannot do better in New York than any place on earth.

Maintain by deliberate effort the fabric of the family. You should find a number of good things that you and the family can do together, thereby preventing the city from breaking up your home.

Above all, live with a purpose. Know what you want to do, can do best and ought to do. All opportunities become snares and traps if you don't have a clear purpose.

Mr. Harrington said that in the final analysis the possibility of living in New York and liking it depended not on New York but on its people.

"True glory," he observed, "dwells where good deeds are done."

Ballad of the Bus Chase

COME busk ye, merry men and maids,
Busk ye and likewise bown,
And give chase to the fleeting bus
That roams through New York Town.

Wot ye they ever go in pairs.
To run alone they're loath.
Eluded by the leading one,
Ye always miss them both.

Indeed no sportsman true is he
Who, wreaking cruel fate,
Mercilessly brings one bus down
And parts it from its mate.

O, let the loving twain speed on,
Snorting in gleeful bliss,
Though ere ye next cry view halloo
An hour will pass, I wis.

Uncaught, perchance they will increase
Steadily, like their fares,
And ye who lie in wait for them
Can miss their young in pairs.
